Undersheriff Craig DuMond remarked, "These dealers should be figuring it out by now that Sheriff Mills and the members of his Office will not stop in our relentless pursuit of ridding our County of these dealers. Moreover, what is most disturbing is the fact that virtually all of them we arrest are on public assistance. This should be a clear call for welfare reform...career criminals should not be supported by the hard working, law abiding citizens in our communities...we need to bring back fingerprint checks, we need to screen applicants for drugs, we need to deny public assistance benefits to criminals who continually victimize the very people who pay the bills. If we reinvest the money saved from addressing this problem we could put more of an emphasis on treatment, education and enforcement and truly make a difference!". "In regard to our continued enforcement efforts, stay tuned, there are more arrests coming and we are committed to following these cases through to ensure these businessmen dealers receive the lengthy prison sentences they deserve".
